

THE 12CS OF CHRIST

CHRIST AT THE CENTRE

Christ at the Centre is a Christ-centred guide to spiritual formation, discipleship, and ministry, built around the 12Cs of Christ for Spiritual Ministry Empowerment: Confession, Consecration, Character, Church, Confidence, Communication, Calling, Competence, Commitment, Commission, Collaboration and Constancy, with Christ Himself as the 13th C, the living centre, source, and goal of them all. In this opening volume, Duke Fitz-Theodore Randolph explores the first triad: Confession, Consecration and Character, showing how honest repentance, wholehearted devotion, and Christlike living form the foundation of faithful Christian life and service. Blending theology with insights from psychology, philosophy, and ministry practice, this book offers more than reflection; it provides a practical framework for personal growth, discipleship, church ministry, and mission. Christ at the Centre presents an overarching theological model that can be applied by university-level theological courses and church communities worldwide for comprehensive instruction, curriculum development, and guidance in line with a complete biblical Christian vision for personal growth, corporate care, and global evangelism.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Professor Duke Fitz-Theodore Randolph (PhD) is the Founder of Global Ministries Daily Bread, an External Examiner for doctoral students at Africa International University (NEGST), and an Associate Professor of Ministry at Global University, where he mentors church leaders in Europe, the United States, and Africa. He has authored several books, including A Theory of Lay Ministry Praxis, Marriage Made in Heaven, Love with Work Boots On, How to Hear and Understand God's Voice Using 15 Senses, Prayer That Works the Triple-Locked Way, Body over Brand, Called by Christ, and other forthcoming titles. Engaging with the changing and often challenging landscapes of mission, evangelism, social work, ministry, the church, leadership, and management, Randolph also remains active in the corporate and secular world, particularly in the fields of social work, mental health, and health and social care. He brings perspectives from both the marketplace and ministry, and from the world and the church, seeking to help them converge at a common apex to draw out the best from both realms.
